Leach Standard Ware pottery comes in a range of stoneware glazes which are selected and developed for their quality and colour and are laboratory tested for food safety. The pots are fired to 1280 degrees Celsius, resulting in a dense and durable product. During the firing, the amount of oxygen in the kiln's atmosphere is reduced and the flame pulls oxygen from the clay and glazes instead, infusing the glazes with deep, rich, iron tones. Due to the unpredictability of the firing process and materials, all glaze finishes are unique and can vary significantly.

MELIN TREGWYNT

Melin Tregwynt, a small white washed woollen mill, can be found in a remote wooded valley on the Pembrokeshire coast. There has been a mill on this site since the 17th century, when local farmers would bring their fleeces to be spun into yarn and woven into warm Welsh wool blankets. Today Melin Tregwynt weaves beautiful Welsh blankets and accessories that combine authentic Welsh tradition with innovative and modern design.

LYNGBY PORCELÆN

The Danish Porcelain Factory - Lyngby Porcelæn - was established in 1936 in Kings Lyngby, north of Copenhagen. It was known for its elegant, clean lines and minimalist aesthetic. Having established itself as an influential design force in Denmark, the company closed its doors in 1969. In 2012, the company was restarted, and Lyngby now develops new contemporary designs, as well as relaunching its iconic earlier pieces, such as the Lyngby Vase, first designed in 1936.

TOM ROOTH

British artist Tom Rooth has always painted and drawn, from childhood and through his years working in the art world as an auction house specialist and fine art dealer. He particularly likes working in the tactile medium of ceramic and finds plates a versatile form for his designs, which can be hung on a wall as a work of art or used on the table. Inspired by both land and sea, Tom has created a range of distinctive designs that add cheer to any home and showcase his skill as an artist. Pieces include one-off, hand-drawn and handmade dishes, limited edition chargers, and most recently dinner services that can be made up piece by piece or in sets according to design. More items from Tom's range are available at our shop.
