TOM ROOTH

British artist Tom Rooth has always painted and drawn, from childhood and through his years working in the art world as an auction house specialist and fine art dealer. He particularly likes working in the tactile medium of ceramic and finds plates a versatile form for his designs, which can be hung on a wall as a work of art or used on the table. Inspired by both land and sea, Tom has created a range of distinctive designs that add cheer to any home and showcase his skill as an artist. Pieces include one-off, hand-drawn and handmade dishes, limited edition chargers, and most recently dinner services that can be made up piece by piece or in sets according to design.
